Membership Benefits

PHCC—National Association

Money-Saving Services

PHCC membership can save your business money. Special programs include fleet analysis, employee selection and screening service, fleet credit card from Exxon/Mobil, warranty program, NEBS business forms, WearGuard Clothing, PHCC credit card, the PHCC Tool Box and a members-only coupon book.

Industry Representation

PHCC-National Association represents its members at all levels of government. At the national level, the government relations staff constantly monitors legislation and regulations that affect p-h-c contractors. PHCC also works with other industry-related associations so PHCC members are up to date on the entire construction industry.

Networking Opportunities

PHCC members have access to powerhouse networking opportunities, helping you learn from others who have “been there, done that”.

Education and Training

PHCC members have access to research and training materials designed to teach business management skills. Using PHCC business management programs, you’ll learn how to enhance your company’s image, understand financial statements, become the prime contractor on remodeling jobs, manage your overhead costs, plan for the continuation of your business, advertise effectively, manage projects and develop a marketing plan. You can also learn to train your employees to handle customer complaints, sell your products and services, and convey your company’s image. If you want to increase profits, you need to be a member of PHCC.

Latest News

To succeed in business, you need good information; you need to know the latest trends, the inside stories, and the movers and shakers in the industry. You need it all quickly and easily from one main source. That source is PHCC-National Association.

Professional Pride

Lift the stature of your business and profession by proudly displaying the PHCC logo on your stationery, uniforms and service vehicles.

Business-Building Tools

To get ahead and stay ahead in constantly changing markets requires very special advantages. That’s why PHCC members profit from nationally-acclaimed quoting software, PHCC Labor Calculator. The PHCC Professional Product Line gives you exclusive distribution of pro-quality residential and commercial p-h-c products from some of the industry’s top names.

Annual Convention and ISH Trade Show

With informative seminars, incredible social events, an exhibit hall packed with the latest products and services and opportunities to meet industry leaders, wholesalers and manufacturers, this is a must attend event for all p-h-c contractors.

Money-Saving Services

PMPV membership can also save your business money. Special programs include pre-paid legal plans offered by Pre-Paid Legal Services, collections services offered by IC System, insurance plans offered by Federated Insurance, and special discounts on uniforms and apparel provided by Logo Dynamics and Cintas.

Industry Representation

PMPV represents its members before the Virginia General Assembly and various state regulatory boards. While you’re at work, your association serves as a watchdog on your behalf and helps lead the fight against costly regulatory changes.

Networking Opportunities

PMPV members have the opportunity to exchange ideas and learn from their peers through our annual statewide education conference.

Education and Training

The PMPV annual convention provides you with up-to-date training on topics including code changes, business management, business law, financial management and various technical skills. During the annual convention, PMPV also hosts the state Plumbing Apprenticeship Competition. At the local level, PMPV assists local chapters in coordinating educational programs to meet the needs of contractors in your area.

Latest News

PMPV members receive a complimentary subscription to PMPV’s quarterly magazine, IMAGE, and monthly e-newsletter. For more time-sensitive information, PMPV maintains a web presence at www.pmpv.org.

Professional Pride

Show your pride by using the PMPV logo on your stationery, advertising and service vehicles.

Special Business Products

PMPV, in partnership with its Northern Virginia local chapter, has developed a statewide Resource Book with most of the information you need in your everyday business operations. The Resource Book contains information on the association and its members, inspections and utilities, job safety, licensing and training, human resources, state legislature, contractor regulations and tradesman regulations. It’s your “one-stop shopping” resource for information and who to call with questions.

PMPV also publishes an annual Membership Directory and Products Guide. This guide points you to our representatives of the products you use every day in your business.

The Resource Book and Membership Directory and Products Guide are exclusive members-only publications that are handy reference tools for your business.

Member Opportunities

PMPV Annual Convention

PMPV is the educational leader in Virginia’s plumbing-heating-cooling industry. Join the association at its annual convention to get the most up-to-date industry training offered in Virginia. Whether it’s the basics of running a business or technical training, you can get it all here.

Committee Participation

Want to make the most of your membership opportunities? PMPV has several committees on which you can serve your industry and share your talents. The convention committee plans the annual convention. Are you a visionary? Our education, training and apprenticeship committee plans the annual statewide plumbing and HVAC apprenticeship competitions. The membership committee helps to recruit new members and keep existing members. The legislative committee represents the association before the Virginia General Assembly and several state regulatory boards.

Industry-Wide Opportunities

PMPV is represented on the Virginia Apprenticeship Council, the State Building Code Technical Review Board and the Board for Contractors. These three state boards regulate most of our industry’s activities and our presence on them is vital. Members who are interest in being appointed to vacant positions on these board should indicate their interest to the association.
